

USA
TODAY

MONEY

SECTION B

Hometown tastes

Virtually every region of the USA has at least one food product that residents can't seem to live without — even when they move to a place where the product isn't sold. Some of the products — such as Pennsylvania's Utz potato chips — can be difficult to find outside the hometown. Others — such as Tastykake and Vernor's — are embarking on a national sales program.

San Francisco's
Parisian bread

Detroit's
Vernor's ginger ale

New York's
Spiedie sauce

